Butterfly Girl

Choi Eun-jin

Hardcover | 192x240mm | 52p | Age +6 New

Making the impossible possible, Beautiful imagination
A little girl wearing a yellow skirt follows a butterfly into the park to play. As the butterfly's yellow wings flutter in the wind, the young girl swishes her yellow skirt around. When the butterfly smells the flowers, the little girl does too. When the butterfly gropes the sky the little girl does too, with her fingers. At long last, the butterfly soars in the sky. The little girl also wants to fly up in the sky. The little girl sits on the bench and takes off her shoes. She holds a shoe in each hand, spreads her arms out like wings and with all her might springs upwards! Thud! The little girl lands back on the ground. She looks like she is about to cry. [Butterfly Girl] is a story about a little girl who loves butterflies and wants to become one. When we really like someone, we often want to look like them or do the same things they do. We also want to be just like them. What happens if what we really like and want to become is a person, not a butterfly? Of course, a person can't change into a butterfly. Current science makes this an impossible dream. But on that day, the impossible becomes possible.

Choi Eun-jin Choi Eun-jin studied philosophy and worked in an IT company. While raising her daughter, she was thinking of her childhood dreams and began to draw pictures and write calligraphy. For ten years, she created illustrations using various medium, and is currently sharing her skills and is drawing black and white illustrations at Pilmong Sumook Design House. She has illustrated [How Adults Study], [Little Dharma's Mind Class], [Why I Study the Classics], and [Princess EuiSoon].

Mr. Moon, why are you following me?

Rury Lee, Eunsil Song

Hardcover | 228x269mm | 44p | Age +6

A comedic fantasy that warmly comforts the soul.

Why does the Moon follow us? This is a question we all ask. When we walk home at night, Mr. Moon follows us relentlessly! Why in the world does he follow us? This picture book can help you figure out why. The best friends DuDu and Coco live in Venice. DuDu loves playing with Coco so much that he seldom goes home. DuDu never goes home until late at night. When he does, someone follows him. It's Mr. Moon. Mr. Moon says he isn't following DuDu but he's always right above him. Why in the world is Mr. Moon following DuDu? Rury Lee shows the reader a new style of comedy in his new book. The jokes and comedy shared between DuDu, Coco and Mr. Moon trigger our laughter. Author Eunsil Song's characters DuDu, Coco and Mr. Moon's joyful tone and performance together with Rury Lee's gags make a heartwarming comedy.

Rury Lee When he was thirty, he came across "John Patrick Norman McHennessy: The Boy Who Was Always Late" and "Frederick" and has been deeply in love with picture books ever since. Together with his partner Soonyoung Lee, they started BookGoodCome Publishing Co, and have published more than 200 books so far. Rury wrote more than 10 books including 『Black Noses』 『The Warm Breath』 『Sam the Teacher Who is Always Late』, and 『Picture Book Travel with Daddy 1 and 2』. Rury is currently hosting "Glimmering Picture Books", "Want to Know this Author?", and "Picture Book Constellation Psychology" On BookGoodCome's YouTube Channel.

Eunsil Song Not only is Eunsil a picture book illustrator, but she has two daughters who love to follow her around and ask her to play with them every day just like DuDu! Like a mother, she wanted to warmly encourage her readers. She has illustrated <Angela the Angel> <Poof> written by Rury Lee.

In the picture book "Squish Squash" best friends Boogi and Sari live on the sea floor. One day when Boogi was alone, he heard a strange sound. "Squish, Squash" Boogi was so scared, he pulled his head, arms and legs into his shell and quaking and trembling. Then his friend Sari showed up. Sari left Boogi alone because he was so scared, and went in search of where the sound was coming from. Fortunately, Boogi decided to go along with Sari on the adventure. What in the world is making the "squish, squash" sound? Could it be a really scary monster? In "Squish Squash" get to know new and interesting sounds you have never experienced and just how fun and exciting they can be!

Gomaun Even over the smallest sound, all of a sudden I can be startled. I use my imagination and enjoy chuckling to myself. Even adults enjoy imagining strange situations. Through picture books, I am finally in my own world. I'm so grateful to have these experiences, and for that reason the title is "Grateful". "Squish Squash" is the first book I have written and illustrated.

Little Poet's Day

HyeJin Jang

Hardcover | 187x257mm | 36p | Age +6 New

Unravel the truth of a lonesome existence with a unique character and humor! A very special picture book that conveys emotions! The main character of "Little Poet's Day" is Little Poet. She is admirable and precocious, and knows the joys of taking walks, contemplation, and creation over studying! Of course, she also makes us laugh. "This little plants also bloom flowers but what am I living for?" As she walks she look at the blooming flowers and throws out a soliloquy. As you see such a young and precocious child pose such questions a smile comes to your face. On the other hand, if one were to think about such questions, you would naturally ask yourself again. What am I living for? Will the Little Poet find the answer to "What do I truly have to live for?" Little Poet's Day is flowing with humor from beginning to end. She speaks of philosophy and art, but she is a little child. The child's mother has no interest in philosophy or art. Her mother's main interests are only schoolwork and cleaning. Together with the main character's soliloquys and comparisons, the author's humor is shown through a sub-story. The words of the story are serious, and the pictures are humorous. Because of this, it's impossible to not read the book cover to cover.

A picture book that is serious, funny and sad. Little Poet's Day is a magical picture book you won't want to miss!

HyeJin Jang I played in the dirt in an empty room in the mountains of Africa. I live with my friends and listen to the whispers of the stars, flowers, and trees. I plan to make books that light a flame in the reader's hearts. Little Poet's Day is the first book written and illustrated by the author.

What am I doing now?

Min Sea

Hardcover | 240x209mm | 40p | Age +6

Miru is splashing around in the water. Miru told Duru to play in the water together. But, Duru has a nervous expression on his face. All of a sudden he started to cry. Duru is afraid of the water, so he can't play. Then, Miru suggested another game to play. "From now on, guess what I'm doing!" Miru laid face down on the ground and waved his arms and legs, then sat down, got up and jumped. He laid down again and like a slippery fish was moving this way and that. What do you think Miru is doing? Miru's project is to help his little brother overcome his fear of water! This picture book helps you to get closer to the water as you answer the quiz questions.

Min Sea I got up early, drank in morning air, and had fun playing all by myself. That's how I came to enjoy doing things with my hands. Thanks to my animal loving father and plant loving mother I was always with my lovely plants and animal comrades. By having secret conversations with animals and plants, I came to appreciate all life, and while looking for a place to express this appreciation I wrote this book. Like the ocean, I want to embrace the precious life in this picture book and express my affection for it.

Squirrel's Cloud

SeungHye Joh

Hardcover | 210x202mm | 40p | Age 6+

This is a new picture book by Cho Seung Hye, the author of Dong Dong and the Wonder Mouth Series. This book will cheer you up and make you happy again! There was once a squirrel who always had a rain cloud that followed him around. Even on the sunniest of days rain would fall on the squirrel's head. One day the squirrel met a rabbit as he was going for a walk. The rabbit talked with the squirrel but then afterward, he caught a cold because of the squirrel's rain cloud. Being alone again, the squirrel becomes lonely and sad. When will the squirrel's rain cloud go away? Surely it will disappear, right? Squirrel's Cloud is a picture book that provides warmth and comfort in the moments you feel down or blue. When you are lonely or having a hard time, this book provides an umbrella that reminds you of the special people in your life. For whoever is sad or having a hard time, the umbrella will let them have wisdom and feelings of bravery.

SeungHye Joh It rains every now and then. What is thought to be a shower turns into a rainy season. One day, when it seemed like the rain would never end, it stopped, and the sun came out. The wet earth dried slowly. I wish a sunny day for everybody.

Mandol

Yun Dong-Ju, JeongMin Kim

Hardcover | 180x243mm | 44p | Age +6

Mandol was on his way home from school when he picked up five pebbles from the electric pole. He fires the first pebble aiming at the pole. Whack! He fires the second pebble. Oh my gosh! What on earth is Mandol trying to do with the pebbles? 'Mandol' is a heartwarming and imaginative picture book based on the famous poem by Yun Dong Ju. Mandol is an innocent child who solve his worries about school tests through fun games. This picture book is reminiscent of old Korean paper, soft pencil lines, and harmonious colors. Mandol's expressions and gestures when throwing the stone rulers, and those of the friends that are cheering him on show life and movement in the pictures. Children can feel the warmth of the author through the expressions filled with laughter. The innocence of children and their desire to play endless games together can be felt.

JeongMin Kim She loves picture books. The reason? There are a lot of pictures but not many words, so you can quickly say I read it all! Finished! You can also open picture books and read them really quickly whenever you think of them. There are also some books that don't have any words! However, making a picture book takes a very long time. You can't just say "I'm done!" with a snap of your fingers. But, he/she loves making picture books just as much as reading them. She became a picture book author in order to give people comfort, to make people smile, and sometimes to make people think deeply and share thoughts. She wrote "Baby Bear, Are You OK?" and "Happy BookBag".

The Song of the Snails

Kim Yumi

Hardcover | 246x209mm | 48p | Age +6 New

One fine spring day, an invitation arrived addressed to both snails. Daram and Dadol got a wedding invitation. For both snails to get to the wedding they soon left on their way. But, from somewhere they heard a magnanimous voice. It was the sun! "If it's ok, if it's really ok, please listen to the song of the flowers." The two snails suddenly forgot all about going to the wedding, smelled the flowers and had a good time. Then the sun said once again, "If it's ok, it's it's really ok, please help this earthworm." A small earthworm was locked inside a plastic bottle. Each of the snails sat down and tried to save the earthworm. Can this be good? There are so many beautiful things, and things to look at or listen to on the way. Can the snails get to the wedding on time without being late? <The Song of the Snails> is half picture book and half lyric poetry. Author Yumi Kim was inspired by the scenery in Jacques Prévert's 'Song of the Snails on their Way to a Funeral' and wrote this picture book. This is a beautiful hymn of life sung by small and slow snails.

Kim Yumi The author abandoned her full-time job of over 20 years, and in case she wanted to continue, she even moved to a new place. This is because the author wanted to do something exciting. Then one day, a picture book she saw, got stuck in her head. She wanted to draw illustrations and write stories so badly her hands started to itch. Her mind started to overflow. She met some good people and they came up with a story and put it down in a book. She is now studying Korean traditional painting at Hongik University and is working on picture books.

Happy Backpack

Jungmin Kim

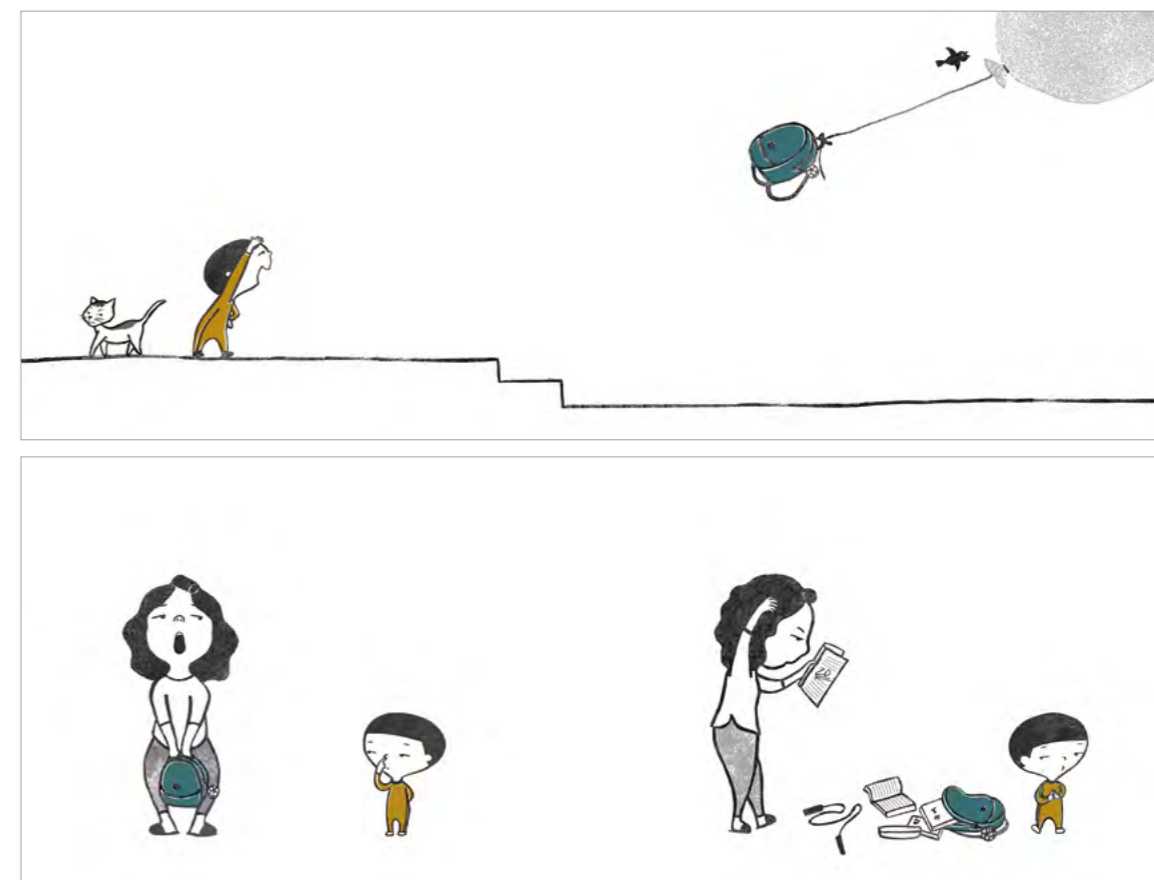

Hardcover | 245 × 148mm | 52p | Age 6+

A boy is going home after school. For some reason, his backpack feels heavy today. It's so heavy he can't carry it. The boy tries to get rid of his bag using a gigantic balloon, but the balloon pops. Then the boy throws his bag in the trash, but the backpack won't stop following him around! How will he get away? Happy Backpack lightens the hearts of children that are heavily weighed down by a grade-driven education culture.

Jungmin Kim Picture books are awesome. Why? Because there's not much to read, and they're filled with images. You can also quickly „read“ through them. You can take out a picture book whenever you feel like it. Some picture books don't even have a single word. Amazing! But did you know that making those illustrations takes a lot of time? You can't just throw them together. Nonetheless, I enjoy making picture books just as much as I delight in reading them. I became an illustrator because I wanted to share stories that bring comfort, laughter, and ideas to reflect on. I illustrated Are You Alright Gomgom?

Soonwon Lee · Eunsil Song

Hardcover | 225 × 270mm | 42p | Age 3+

Sold To Taiwan, Vietnam

A little boy doesn't want to go to school. Every day he has a new excuse for staying home. Sometimes it's because it's raining; sometimes because he didn't finish his homework; and sometimes because his stomach hurts. He gives countless reasons and refuses to go to school. One day, his mother walks him to school. Find out what happens along the way. A Misty Morning Walk with Mother beautifully depicts novelist Lee Soonwon's childhood memories, with heartwarming illustrations by Song Eunsil.

Soonwon Lee Is Korea's best contemporary writer. He awakens the readers' conscience and soul with the healing power of nature and reflection. Lee won the Dong-in Literary Award, the Contemporary Literature Award, the Hyoseok Literary Award, the Heo Gyun Literary Award, and the Namchon Literary Prize. He captivates readers with stories like Whale Rock, which contain the essence of nature. In 2013, Soonwon Lee started publishing his picture book series with various young illustrators, and conveyed moving childhood stories to his readers.

EunSil Song Song is motivated to illustrate by her desire to become a warm light to others. Like the little sculptor, Song was many things in her life, including a designer, child therapist, and illustrator. Now, she is a mother who at times is an embracing forest or a frightening dinosaur to her two daughters who are like the koala and mole in the story. As an illustrator, she dreams of making picture books that turn broken hearts into shining stars. Her illustrated works Angela the Angel and A Misty Morning Walk with Mother were both well received by readers.

Jays and Oak Trees

Soonwon Lee's Picture Book Series 02

Soonwon Lee · Seungeun Kang

Hardcover | 228 × 280mm | 36p | Age 4+

Jays love acorns. Unlike other birds, they hoard their food in secret places. Oftentimes, they forget where they have hidden their treasured acorns. Over time, the forgotten acorns sprout and grow into a lush oak forest. This book depicts the natural process of jays planting trees. There is also an amusing sub-story to be found in the illustrations.

Seungeun Kang After studying illustration at the New York School of Visual Art, Kang worked as an illustrator in various industries. She was selected by BookGoodCome at the Bologna International Children's Book Fair, and illustrated Jays and Oak Trees. Just as a tiny acorn holds a giant oak tree within, children too nurture immense and promising dreams. This realization motivated her while working on this project.

Who Is It?

Emanuele Bertossi

Hardcover | 240 × 315mm | 40p | Age 5+

The author gives life to abandoned metal scraps and turns them into fabulous fairytale characters, which in turn narrate a terrific story. Now the scraps are speaking to children. This book demonstrates how children's minds are a boundless world of imagination, how stories boost creativity, and how children can grow up to become artists. This book shows that curiosity, playing, inventing, and art are all woven together in harmony. Most of all, Who Is It? highlights the virtue in the pure, unlimited hearts of children.

Smart Man Seo young Park

Hardcover | 216 × 168mm | 120p | Age 6+ New

There was once a little boy living smart daily life. One day, as usual, he put his smartphone in his pocket and went for a walk. All of a sudden his smartphone slipped out of his pocket and fell onto the ground. In that moment, he became confused. If my phone is broken, what should I do? With trembling hands he picked up the smartphone, but his phone didn't even have a scratch on it. The little boy gave a sigh of relief and started on his way again when he had to go to the bathroom. He finished using the bathroom, and as soon as he looked in the mirror, something unbelievable happened. He was startled and started to run out of that bathroom as fast as he could, when an incredibly spooky thing happened. Can the little boy really spend a smart day? <Smart Man> is a graphic novel illustrated to show the complicated events of a little boy's daily experiences. The author portrays the psychology of a little boy in a world filled with cracks and fear of everyday life caused by smartphones in a comical and thrilling way.

Seo young Park The author was born 1989 and was raised in Seoul. When she was young she moved with her parents to Ireland but since she couldn't communicate with friends, she got really into cartoons on TV and books with pictures in them. The joy and feeling of being so immersed during that time is still firmly planted in her memory. In university she studied Korean Literature and after graduating oddly worked in film production, public institutions, and distribution companies. After feeling lost for a while, she decided she wanted to work for herself and not others, and began the challenge of making a picture book. She is quite interested in the symbolic imagery of her dreams and the puzzles she faced in her own life and wishes to capture these in her drawings.

When I Want to be Impressive

Children from Gokseong

SoftCover | 130 × 200mm | 176p | Poetry

In this poetry collection by the students of Gokseong Elementary School, the children unleash their creative talents under the tutelage of Kim Seonja, librarian and president of GiljakunLibrary, and Chae Myeongok, the young poets' homeroom teacher. As the youthful poems bring laughter and tears to our eyes, we are reminded that everyone is a born poet or artist.

Married Life: The Poetry of Life

Grandmothers from Gokseong

SoftCover | 130 × 200mm | 184p | Poetry

This poetry collection depicts the 'hard lives lived' by old Korean women in rural Gokseong. The title, shi-jib-sal-i, has a double meaning that refers to the difficulties of post-marriage life, and a belated learning of poetry. The nine poets of Gokseong portray life's vicissitudes through 124 poems that lyrically resound with heart-wrenching melodies. Poet Lee Young Kwang sings his own praises of them. "Remarkable and inspiring. This is not a simple collection of poems by old women who learned to write. It is an outstanding work of art."

Sleeping Witch

Misol Go

BookGoodCome Story Flower Series 02

SoftCover | 148 × 195mm | 104p | Age 7+
Fairytales for children

Sleeping Witch is a children’s book collection comprised of two stories: one about a witch who sleeps for a century, and another about mystical events in a seaside village. “Sleeping Witch” invokes innocent laughter and prompts endless questions from children. The story borrows from the fairytale, Sleeping Beauty. Though witches are often characterized as evil and ill-wishing, the young witch in Sleeping Witch is quite different. Who would imagine that she could choose to sleep for 100 years just because she loves sleeping? Writer Go Misol’s character is both intriguing and familiar. The second story, “Takurakaraka” is a story inspired by Go’s time with pacific islanders while filming a documentary. One day, a child, who could only say “takurakaraka” appeared in the seaside village. Sometime later, the sun fell into the ocean. How will Takurakaraka and the villagers resolve this issue?

Misol Go Go studied English language and literature at Yonsei University. For the last 20 years, she has written scripts for numerous South Korean broadcasting companies, including SBS, MBC, and TVN. In 2011, she visited isolated Pacific islands and remote African savannas to film documentaries. As she encountered people who lived close to nature and were untainted by materialism, she was inspired to write children’s stories. Six years later, she wrote her first storybook, Sleeping Witch. She has enjoyed reading fairytales since she was young, and will often leaf through her childhood fairytales for inspiration. Like magic, Go’s stories spring forth with energy, delight, and anticipation of what is to come.

Graphic Novel

Serialized by Buddhist communities such as the Jungto Society and Una, this amusing and easy-to-read graphic novel delivers a profound, enlightening message about cherished everyday values. Square is discontent with the irrationality of the world. One day, he embarks on a journey to consult Ven. Round in search of answers to his questions. This witty and enlightening graphic novel reflects on our worries and questions, about such things as the purpose of life and meaning of existence.

Joonbeom Kim Debuted as a graphic artist in 1989 with Metal Brain 109, which appeared in the children's journal IQ Jump. Metal Brain 109 was a critical and popular success, and has reigned as the undying masterpiece of Korean Sci-Fi graphic novels for the last 20 years. Kim received the New Artist's Award from the Korean Cartoonist Association in 1994, and the Good Graphic Novel award from YWCA in 1998.

Names on the Breeze

Minseok Kang

SoftCover | 128 × 188mm | 254p | Age 15+
Essay

Longtime radio host and music columnist Minseok Kang shares his essays on music, healing, and comfort. After discovering that well-written music columns are like mellifluous songs that comfort people, Kang devoted his life to bringing heartfelt musical resonance into people's lives. From Edith Piaf and Michael Jackson, to Sureda and Nick Drake, Kang introduces 44 consoling songs, organized into four seasons. Find comfort and inspiration as you embark on a musical journey.

Minseok Kang Is a music columnist, former editor at Minumsa Publishing Group, producer at LG Media, and chief producer of the animated film My Beautiful Girl, Mari. He was a member of the organization Nochatsa or "people searching for music." He hosted the BBS-FM radio music show World Music Journey for a dozen years, is an active music critic, and panelist for various popular venues.

Adrift in Pop Culture

Bongseok Kim

Essay

Pop culture critic Bongseok Kim's autobiographical essay, Adrift in Pop Culture portrays a boy becoming a man. How did popular culture—encountered through graphic novels, film, fiction, TV, and songs—turn stuttering boy Bongseok into a literary critic? Kim discovered masculinity from Bruce Lee and Jackie Chan, and experienced absolute solitude in The Martian Chronicles and Le Grand Bleu. Kim shares the culture shock he experienced from the Japanese film magazine, Screen, which he came across as a teenager during a family trip to Busan. He learned the meaning of life by watching Tim Burton's Batman and The Nightmare Before Christmas. This book is a complete giftset of popular culture for contemporary readers who grew up in the same generation.

Bongseok Kim Was born in Seoul, and graduated from Korea University with a degree in history. He was a journalist at Cine 21 and Hankyoreh Shinmun, during which time he acquired a loyal following. He has been a pop culture fanatic since childhood, and is well-versed in film, graphic novels, animation, TV, and J-pop. Thanks to his rich background, Kim is an active film and literary critic.
